Touch Screen

Create Map/Use Keyboard

Using the Touch Screen

The Touch Screen is used when typing words or when drawing the dungeon map.

■ Typing with the Keyboard

When you have to enter text, the Touch Screen will become a keyboard. Type letters and numbers by tapping them with the stylus. Tap the BS (Backspace) key to delete a letter.

■ Drawing the Dungeon Map

When in the Yggdrasil Labyrinth, you can map your surroundings. Look at the upper screen to see the layout, before you then draw a corresponding map on the lower screen. For more details, see P.14.

Party Formation

At the Explorers Guild in town, you can register new guild members and organize your own guild. At the start of a new game, you will create a party here.

Register

Create new characters here. First, name the character, then choose a class and portrait. Newly created characters can be put into the party from the Formation menu.

Organize

Organize your guild here. You can Dismiss, Retire, or Rest guild members here. Dismissed or Retired members cannot be brought back, so be careful when choosing one of these options.

Dismiss

Dismiss a character from the guild. You will lose these characters and any equipment they are wearing forever.

Retire

Retire a character and receive a new character in exchange. The new character will start at Lv. 1, with bonus skill points.

Rest

Characters who Rest lose 10 experience levels, but will be able to reallocate their skill points.

Forming a Party

A party consists of up to 5 guild members. You will need to form one in order to enter the Labyrinth.

The Front and Back Lines

While forming a party, you will place characters on either the front or back lines. Once you're satisfied with the formation, select Confirm to create the party.

Registered Character

Choose the Proper Placement

Characters on the front line are more likely to be attacked in battle than those on the back line. It's generally good to put warrior-type characters like landsknechts and protectors in front, and magic-type characters like medics and alchemists in back.

Game Flow

In this game, you will constantly go back and forth between the town of Etria and the Yggdrasil Labyrinth.

Town of Etria

Make preparations, such as healing, managing your party, and buying equipment in town, then enter the Labyrinth via the Forest Entrance or Geomagnetic Field.

Labyrinth

When you become weak in the Labyrinth, use a Warp Wire or the Geomagnetic Field to return to Etria.

Cartography Tips

Paint the Floor

Check the top screen to see how the floor is laid out. (Choosing AUTO MAP from the options will automatically paint the spaces you walk over.)

Draw the Walls

If you don't draw the walls, you won't be able to tell dead ends from open spaces. Draw lines on either side of the walkway to show the walls.

Marking Crossroads

If you come to a crossroads, you might want to draw walls or floors for a square in the other directions to remind yourself to come back and explore those branches.

Placing Icons

Place Icons Wherever You Like

There are icons for all purposes on the right side of the Touch Screen. Find the one you want and drag it onto the appropriate square of the map. You can use icons however you want.

Connecting Rooms

Rooms next to each other have 1 square in between, so it's best to put a Door icon between them to ensure the map's integrity.

Make Frequent Use of Memos

You can place memos on top of other icons. If there's anything important you want to be reminded of, place a memo just to be safe.

Battle

Here are the basic tenets of battle, including an explanation of the commands.

Basics of Battles

Battles are turn-based, where every character's action takes up one turn. There are six different commands in battle. (P.24)

Enemy Encounters

When you encounter an enemy in the Labyrinth, you enter the battle screen. Normal enemies cannot be seen, but select monsters known as FOEs visibly move around the map. FOEs take one step for every step you take; if they catch you, you will enter battle.

Front and Back Lines

Battles will begin using the formation set by the player. The front line is generally targeted by enemies more often than the back line. Enemy groups have no front or back line.

Battle Screen Guide

- 1 Icon showing the time of day.
- 2 The in-game clock.
- 3 The message window.
- 4 Indicator of how many turns have elapsed.
- 5 Battle commands. Their functions are explained on P.24.
- 6 Boost gauge. When it reaches MAX, you can use the Boost command. The gauge increases whenever a character attacks or is attacked.
- 7 The character's HP in bar and numeric form.
- 8 The character's TP in bar and numeric form.

Battle Commands

Boost Gauge

The six commands to the left are your options in each turn of battle. Use them wisely, according to the situation. When the boost gauge is full, the Boost command will be available.

► ATTACK

To attack with your equipped weapon, select Attack, then highlight a target and press the A Button. Characters can attack from the front or back line.

► DEFEND

The damage received will be decreased for 1 turn.

► SKILLS

Use a skill you have learned. Select a skill to use from the list and press the A Button. You cannot use skills without TP.

► ITEMS

Use items in your inventory. Select an item to use from the list and press the A Button, then choose a target to use it on.

► BOOST

When the boost gauge is full, you can use the Boost command. Using this increases the damage dealt on your next turn. After using it, the boost gauge resets to 0; it increases again each time the character attacks or is attacked.

► ESCAPE

Flee from battle. If any party member succeeds in escaping, the entire party will run.

Gaining Levels

Once you gain enough experience from battle, your characters will level up, at which point their statistics will increase. For each level gained, you also gain one skill point. Spend skill points to learn new skills or level up existing skills.

Earning Money

In this game, you will not earn money in combat. However, you will sometimes receive items in battle, which can be sold for money. Once you sell a certain number of items, the store will have new goods available for purchase.

The Songs of Rodsay Ormund, Troubadour

An Etrian Elegy

Listen now, about a town
That found itself under great renown
I tell you now of that small town
The town that was called Etria.

There it stood the fearsome wood
The wood of which people wondered, "Should we go in? I would be a sin?
To go into that fearsome wood?"

Word did spread, and rumor led
To dreams that took hold in people's heads
See how that town flourished
When travelers came pouring in.

Thus they came, to seek their fame
The bold, the proud, and the mystic lame
All hoped they could make their name
By conquering the Labyrinth.

I was one, and had my fun
The green halls filled with phenomenons
It was worth the risks we'd run
On our Etrian Odyssey!

Orientation Song

(Sung to Nobices)

Come, take a tour of
The Verda Plaza
So many things to see!

Down at the inn the
Rooster is crowing
Waking you from your sleep!

Wake in the morning?
Wake in the evening?
Leave it to the innkeep!

Apothecary
Doctors get nary
One coin less than their fee!

They'll fix you up when
You have been wounded
Next time buy Nectar III!

Still, it's not all bad
Forget you were sad
Look at the cute trainees!

Shilleka's goods shop
Just got a new crop
For one and all to see!

Quality weapons,
And shiny armor
But it won't come for free!

She'll always buy your
Found bric-a-brac for
Crafting a brand new piece!

Off to the Golden
Deer, come and stroll in
Prop up your weary feet!

Hear all the requests
Try and do your best
Make those people happy!

When you have done, re-
Turn to the pub and
Collect your well-earned fee!

Explorer's Guild is
Where you can dismiss
The dregs of your party!

Register new blood
Hope they won't be duds
Down in the depths we'll see!

Here, too, leaders will
Reset their men's skill
Soon they'll see victory!

At Radha Hall fun
Comes from their missions
Great for added prestige!

Library books to
Sit down and page through
More than a man could need!

That's it for the tour
Now how 'bout a pure
Glass of delicious mead!

Ballad of the Explorers

Come listen to my story of the classes nine
Brave warriors who went forth in armor that shined
Each one of them with knowledge and powers so fine
I'll tell you of each one in this ballad of mine

The Landsnknecht had a sword that could cut you in twain
His powerful might was known as the monster's bane
With sword or axe, he caused the foul demons much pain
From the front line he lost count of the monsters slain

Survivalists were masters of the woodland lore
You'd mark them by the hats and the scarves that they wore
Their specialty was firing the arrows that soared
The Labyrinth explorers sought them for their corps

Protectors bore a shield in their holy quest
Under its aegis did her companions rest
This noble knight was up to the hardest of tests
No enemy could tarnish that virtuous crest

Dark Hunters were the mistresses of sword and lash
Their binding skills could sway the tide of any clash
Their blades carried affliction with every slash
The monsters they faced reduced to cinders and ash

The medics healed their wounded comrades in need
The poison stings and the injuries that bleed
At great expense did they perform their kind deeds
Their frailty prevented them taking the lead

The learned ones with magic were the Alchemists
The elements they controlled by flicking their wrists
Their magic made up for the weakness of their fists
Without one in the party their presence was missed

Now Troubadours, my own kind, brought cheer and gave mirth
Both menfolk and ladies were the salt of the earth
Our songs boosted the party and proved our own worth
In returning the Labyrinth's beasts to the earth

From foreign lands the mysterious Ronin hail
Their skill with swords came also from that unknown vale
They'll fight down to the last man with tooth and with nail
And flay the beasts' hide empty of stinger and scale

The rarely spotted Hexer controls with a word
The curses he lets fly with are the last things heard
By his command, monsters to suicide are spurred
When recruiting, placement on the back line's preferred

The nine of them down into the Labyrinth went
By Radha Hall the mighty warriors were sent
But little did they know just what this mission meant
Or what lay in store at the end of their descent

Biography

Though possessed of mediocre talent, Mr. Ormund was a popular figure in Etria with the explorers who made regular excursions into the Yggdrasil Labyrinth. His affable and charming demeanor made him well-liked at the famed Golden Deer Pub, where he spent a sizable portion of his life both before and after his retirement as an explorer.

At one time or another Ormund was a member of seven different sub-guilds within the Explorers Guild, most famously with the Ash-Handle Guild. By his own admission, the furthest he ever penetrated into the Labyrinth was the second floor of the Azure Rainforest stratum, on the very same fated excursion that led to the dissolution of the Azalea Guild.

Despite his unremarkable career as an explorer and his meager abilities as a troubadour, Ormund is worth noting as one of the first to set his compositions to parchment. These examples of his legacy are therefore of some cultural value as glimpses into Etria's milieu during the period.
